

HR Information Systems Week 5: Session 2

Register...

Intended Module Learning Outcomes

1. Appraise the development of the human resource function.
2. Critically examine the traditional and contemporary approaches of recruitment and selection.
3. Analyse the procedures and practices of performance management and remedial activities.
4. Investigate and plan the resources required to achieve an organisation's aims and objectives.
- 5. Evaluate and appraise the use of resources against organisational plans.
6. Formulate plans to ensure that resources are maximised and remedial actions are taken where appropriate.

Session Outcomes

At the end of this session learners should be able to:

- Understand HR information system (HRIS)
 - Recognize reasons for using an HRIS
 - Explain functions of an HRIS
 - Appreciate features of an HRIS
 - Analyse E-HRM achievements

An HR information system (HRIS) is a computer-based information system for managing the administration of HR processes and procedure

'e-HRM' is an alternative term for the use of computer technology within the HR function

“HRIS is a way of implementing HR strategies, policies and practices in organizations through a conscious and directed support of and/or with the full use of web technology-based channels.”

Parry and Tyson (2011: 335)
listed five goals for e-HRM

Reasons for introducing HRIS

To improve quality of information available.

To reduce administrative burden on the HR department.

To improve speed at which information is available.

To improve flexibility of information to support business planning.

To improve services to employees.

To produce HR metrics.

To aid human capital reporting.

Integration

‘The realization of improved efficiency and effectiveness is dependent on the design and implementation of the system, and increased effectiveness and involvement in delivering the business strategy may depend on appropriate redeployment and up-skilling of HR staff’
(Parry and Tyson 2011: 352).
