Recruitment

‘Includes those practices and activities carried out by the organisation with the primary purpose of identifying and attracting potential employees’.

(Breaugh and Starke 2000: 45)

Recruitment

- Formal, structured recruitment methods are part of a best practice set of HR practices that is argued to be strategic and improve organisational performance.

Recruitment and Selection Process

Individual Activity – 10 minutes

Find a job advert for an ideal job that you would like to apply for and discuss what information they have provided you with – be prepared to share with the class

Job descriptions involve recording the component parts and principal accountabilities of a role:

- Job title
- Context
- Job summary
- Job content
- Occasional duties
- Working conditions
- Other information
- Performance standards.

Person specifications list the key attributes and/or competencies required of the person to undertake the role.

They are derived from the job description and used as part of the recruitment process.

Defines the KSA's (knowledge, skills and abilities) required to carry out the role

"That's true. We did advertise for someone who 'works well under pressure'..."

KSA and competency requirements for a recruitment adviser

1 Knowledge of:

- all aspects of recruitment;
- sources of recruits;
- different media for use in recruiting;
- relevant test instruments (OPQ qualified).

2 Skills and abilities in:

- interviewing techniques;
- test administration;
- role analysis.

3 Behavioural competencies:

- able to relate well to others and use interpersonal skills to achieve desired objectives;
- able to influence the behaviour and decisions of people on matters concerning recruitment and other HR or individual issues;
- able to cope with change, to be flexible and to handle uncertainty;
- able to make sense of issues, identify and solve problems and 'think on one's feet';
- focus on achieving results;
- able to maintain appropriately directed energy and stamina, to exercise self-control and to learn new behaviours;
- able to communicate well, orally and on paper.

Internal Recruitment Methods

- Uses the internal labour market of an organisation, often before approaching the external labour market.
- It is relatively inexpensive and quick.
- However, it may result in lack of new talent coming to an organisation.

Internal Recruitment Methods

- HUMAN RESOURCE DATABASES—Permit organizations to determine whether current employees possess the qualifications for filling open positions.
- JOB POSTING AND JOB BIDDING—Job posting is a procedure for informing employees that job openings exist. Job bidding is a procedure that permits employees who believe that they possess the required qualifications to apply for a posted position.
- EMPLOYEE REFERRALS—Employees can serve an important role in the recruitment process by actively soliciting applications from their friends and associates.

External Recruitment Methods

- Uses the outside labour market to bring new people into an organisation.
- There are many different external recruitment methods;
- Increasingly electronically based.
- External recruitment can be expensive.
- Corporate websites are often used to attract candidates.

Comparison of sources of candidates

Source	Description	Advantages	Disadvantages
Online recruitment	Company websites, job boards, social media.	Generally, can reach a wider range of possible applicants, and it is quicker and cheaper than traditional methods of advertising. More details of jobs and firms can be supplied on the site and CVs can be matched and applications can be submitted electronically. Websites can use an organization's brand to attract candidates. Job boards are keyword searchable. Job details can be changed and CVs managed electronically. Social media are good for reach – LinkedIn currently has 100 million members worldwide.	Generally, may produce too many irrelevant or poor applications and it is still not the first choice of many job seekers. Websites are expensive and still need other media to drive traffic to the site. Job boards are bad for 'passive seekers'. Social media – employer/recruiter has to manage own profile.
Advertising	Display or classified advertisements in national or local newspapers or journals.	Attract 'passing trade' – people who are not actively looking for a job.	Soon become irrelevant.

Recruitment agencies	Mainly recruit office and sales staff who are registered with them.	Convenient, save time and trouble, draw on an established pool of candidates.	Can produce unsuitable candidates. Pool may be limited.
Jobcentres	Mainly for manual workers and clerical and sales staff.	No cost; usually plenty of choice.	Limited to relatively routine jobs.
Recruitment consultants	Advertise, interview and produce a shortlist.	Provide expertise and reduce workload.	Can be expensive.
Executive search consultants	Conduct searches for senior executives.	Can find top-level people who might not otherwise be interested.	Expensive, limited to top jobs.
Educational establishments	Universities, colleges and schools.	Major source of future talent.	Recruitment campaigns can be costly.
Recruitment process outsourcing	Deliver complete recruiting process.	Save time, bring outside expertise to bear on recruitment problems and free up HR for more value-adding activities.	Feeling that provider is too remote to deal with the real issues and that there is a danger of losing control.

Critical Thinking Activity

1. How can organisations use social media to develop their employer brand?
2. What benefits are there to viewing recruitment as a social process as opposed to a rational process?

Discuss with your peers

Recruitment Advertising

A conventional advertisement will have the following aims;

Generate candidates

Attract attention

Create and maintain interest

Stimulate action

Recruitment Advertising

A checklist of items to include in a recruitment advertisement:

- Name and brief details of employing organisation
- Job role and duties
- Training to be provided
- Key points of the personnel specification or competency profile
- Salary and benefits
- Employment status (e.g. permanent or fixed-term contract)
- Instructions about how to apply.

Evaluation of recruitment activity

HR managers need to monitor the effectiveness of recruitment methods using criteria such as:

- The number, quality and diversity of applicants.
- Speed of recruitment.
- Number of vacancies filled.
- The ratio of offers to acceptances.

Employer Brand

To develop an employer brand:

- Define the desirable futures
- Develop an employer value proposition
- Use 'recruitment content marketing' to create and maintain the digital media presentations
 - Define objectives
 - Identify the target audience
 - Decide on content
- Benchmark the approaches of other organisations
